

Here to Help: State Teen Pregnancy Prevention Organizations

Last Update: April 1, 2010

The following state organizations focus on adolescent sexual health via teen pregnancy and STI/HIV prevention. Not all states have state teen pregnancy prevention organizations and not all state organizations have the capacity at this time to respond to numerous requests for local support and technical assistance. That capacity varies from state to state and is largely related to the size of the organization. Those listed below are assessed by the National Support Center for State Teen Pregnancy Prevention Organizations at Advocates for Youth to have at least a minimal capacity to respond to multiple, but not unlimited, requests for assistance. If your state is not listed but you'd like to know of other state level sources that might be available to you, contact tom@advocatesforyouth.org.
