

Virtual Professional Development for Educators & Clinicians

Districts and health care organizations can supplement in-person training with online, on-demand practice in the virtual classroom or clinic simulator designed to help professionals rehearse and refine a variety of skills needed to effectively teach sex education or provide sexual health care to teens. Advocates for Youth offers the follow sex education core skills for practice:

Research has shown that each educator needs three 10-minute practice sessions per skill in the simulator. Advocates can provide an instructional coach to offer real-time feedback in the classroom simulator and/or to provide on-going technical assistance and follow-up support. Additionally, educators can use the simulator individually or in trios. There is greater impact if educators rehearse their skills individually, but for large districts and/or limited budgets, teachers can be grouped into trios to rehearse the same skill and observe their colleagues' rehearsal as well.
